

Workshop in Papyrology

On May 5-6, 2011, the Department of Linguistics and Philology is hosting a workshop on Greek papyrology. The following lectures are open to the general university public:

Thursday 5 May 2011
Engelska Parken 16-0041

14:00 Introduction
Denis Searby, visiting professor of Greek at Uppsala

14:15 "Reading Papyri, Writing Microhistory:
The Curious Case of the Crocodile Priests of Tebtunis "
Todd Hickey

Dr. Hickey is assistant professor in Classics at the University of Berkeley. He specializes in papyrology (Greek and Egyptian), social and economic history and Late Antiquity.

15:00 "The Papyrus Collection in Lund: From Cellar Vault to Internet "
Karin Kulneff

Dr. Kulneff holds a doctorate in Ancient Greek and has recently worked on digitizing the papyrus collection in Lund and is currently working on the collection in Göteborg.

15:30 "Doctors and patients, diseases and medicaments:
The Oslo collection and Ancient Medicine"
Anastasia Maravela

Dr. Maravela is førsteamanuensis at the Dept. of Philosophy, Classics, History of Art and Ideas, University of Oslo. She has worked on early Greek epic and lyric poetry as well as on medical and other papyri in the Oslo collections.

16:15 Discussion